After Duane Sorenson's last dive, most everyone went to the very nice memorial event. Few went home, some skydived, arriving later, & some just skydived. But most went to this extremely comforting memorial that Bill & Charloa went to a great deal of effort to organize it in their home. They invited everyone over to end the dive with a nice afternoon being able to comfortably chat together and mourn together, about our friend. It was obvious they put a lot of work into it. Mr. Burkner was quite touched, when Bob gave him his ash covered visor. There were tapes, great food & drink. Comfortable surroundings to hear of the many great things Duane has done. Charloa & Ken loved Duane, and did a fantastic job of putting this together. Susan will happy to hear how well the day ended. Thank you to the Burkner's.
